

OLYMPIAN GODS AND GODDESSES

Give both the GREEK and ROMAN names for the following:

“I am the goddess of the moon and of hunting. My twin brother is Apollo. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of the sun, archery, music, and medicine. The Romans adopted me with my Greek name. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the king of gods and humans. I create storms with my thunderbolt. The eagle is my bird. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the goddess of love and beauty. I arose from sea foam and am pictured often with a shell. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of the sea. One of my brothers is the king of the gods. I shake the earth with my trident. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of wine and love great parties. Grapes are my fruit. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of war and make the other gods uneasy because I tend to be temperamental. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the goddess of the sacred flame that burns forever at Mt. Olympus and in my temple. I keep homes safe. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the goddess of the harvest and agriculture. I have a daughter named Persephone. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the queen of gods and humans. My husband controls the sky. I’m proud as a peacock. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of metalworking. I hammer out thunderbolts for the king of the gods and weapons for heroes. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the goddess of wisdom, war, and weaving. The Greeks named an important city after me. The owl is my bird. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the god of the Underworld. One of my brothers is the god of the sea. I am . . .

_____.”

“I am the messenger god with winged sandals and helmet. I protect travelers. I am . . .

_____.”